Centennial Ode.

American school, through the lapse of three years,
What our country presents for the world's consideration.

Behold what we are—reflect what we shall be!
Our children succeed to the past's spotless name,
If as rewards and slaves they'll worthy prove to their graves.

And let your hearts beat to this blithe and gay song,
Sing, sing,
